STETSON MOURNS LOSS OF GOOD MAN

Sad Death of Dr. Chaudoin Casts a Gloom Over the University.

On Sunday, the 24th, at LaGrange, near Titusville, sorrowing friends gathered to pay due respect to the remains of their dear departed friend and brother. For on Friday morning, Rev. W. N. Chaudoin, D. D., the most interesting and striking figure in the Baptist denomination in Florida, fell asleep in Jesus.

From DeLand Dr. Fariss, Miss Palmer, Miss Bush and Chaplain Stewart, came as representatives from the University. Dr. L. D. Geiger, as representing the Baptist denomination, discoursed from the text, II Sam. III. 38, "Know ye not a great man is fallen this day in Israel." Addresses were delivered by all the pastors present, who also acted as pall bearers.

Rev. E. N. Bell, Dr. Chaudoin's former pastor, and Rev. J. G. Black, his present pastor, were both present. Mr. Mahon, the new editor of the "Baptist Witness," also came to pay his respects.

Dr. Chaudoin died poor. He had not labored for the riches of this world. His life was devoted to the benefit of humanity. He was rich, however, in all those qualities of character which the Bible speaks of as "true riches." He was a faithful, devoted follower of his Master under all circumstances and on all occasions. Can we say more?

Although he had been so strenuous in his efforts for the betterment of his fellow man, and had accomplished so much, nevertheless, most of his long life had been one of suffering. Richly endowed by nature with a keen intellect and judicial mind of an unusual type, he never permitted his physical infirmities to keep him from the forefront of the battle for righteousness. In many respects he reminded one of Richard Baxter, who wrote his immortal book, The Saint's Rest, between paroxysms of pain. Most men, so weakened and hampered physically, would have given up the fight as against the inevitable; but Dr. Chaudoin's strong spirit and uncontrollable interest in humanity and its elevation, did not permit him to retire from the field. Rather, out of his weaknesses he wrought strength, and at the time of his death, though quite feeble, he was revered and loved and looked to for wise counsel as was no other man in Florida.

Dr. Chaudoin was a native of Tennessee. He spent his young manhood there, where he was a successful pastor of churches. Afterwards, he went to Georgia, where he was also pastor of several important fields. More than a quarter of a century ago he came to Florida, broken in health. For twenty-five years he served his denomination as corresponding secretary of the state convention, the most important office in the gift of that body. For the greater part of that time he was also the president of the convention. Two years ago, he retired, of his own accord, from the secretaryship, but still held the position of president. So appreciative was his denomination of his noble character and work that he was voted a salary as long as he lived, as secretary emeritus.

At their annual meeting in February last on the expiration of Mr. Stetson's term of office as president of the board of trustees of the University, Dr. Chaudoin was chosen to succeed him; Mr. Stetson himself cast his vote for him. Of all the men who have struggled incessantly for the building up of the University, no one has wrought more nobly and faithfully than Dr. Chaudoin. He was a potent influence in the convention in which the trustees were appointed. His large acquaintance in the State, his experience as presiding officer, the great influence of his fine character, his close association with the president and trustees of the University, with all his tireless energies in its behalf, and his great love for it, fitted him pre-eminently for the important office of chairman of its board of trustees.

On the sixth of May, 1850, Dr. Chaudoin married Miss Caroline A. Frensley, and for fifty-four years these two dearly beloved people have dwelt together. Mrs. Chaudoin it was who has cared for her husband in all these years of his suffering, and but for her we would never have had our beloved friend so long. The Baptist convention and the University especially, owe a great deal to the care and Godliness of Mrs. Chaudoin.

Rollins vs. Stetson.

January 25 was indeed "blue Monday" for the loyal supporters of the white and green, who had the mortification of seeing the Stetson basketball team go down in defeat before the Rollins five, in a game which was neither fast nor spirited. The score stood 21 to 6—about the worst defeat Stetson has ever experienced. The visiting team did some excellent work and amply demonstrated their ability to handle the ball.

The game was called shortly after four o'clock, and the ball put in play in the center of the field, in the presence of quite a large crowd. Rollins made the first point on a foul, but Pounds followed with a goal from foul for Stetson and tied the score. Beardsley let his man get away from him here, however, and two goals were made from the field. About this time the Rollins fellows got to fouling and splendid shots by Pounds made the score 5 to 5. That was the last point made by Stetson in the first half, while Rollins tallied six more, making the score 11 to 5 in favor of the visitors. Stetson tallied but once in the last half, while two goals from fouls and four from the field made the score 21 to 6, where it stood when time was called. Our fellows seemed to have lost their spirit, and even our best players could accomplish nothing in this half.

Pounds, forward, and Hamlin, guard, both members of Stetson's '01 team, were the only men on the Stetson side who played fast ball. Pounds did some good work forward, and Hamlin was right on top of Flaherty, the crack Rollins man, all the time. Our boys were handicapped in height, as their tall opponents passed the ball over their heads; and were sadly deficient in team work. Attempts to play the ball from one man to another nearly always failing.

The Rollins boys deserve credit for having played an excellent game. Their forwards did fine work and were ably supported by a fast center, while their guards were on top of Pounds and Mickle every instant of the play. They showed the results of practice in passing and their fine team work enabled them to keep the ball at Stetson's goal.

Basketball practice will go on steadily, and our boys will make a splendid effort to win the next game. They realize, as does every student in the University, that they are "up against a tough proposition," but they will go to Rollins backed by the old Stetson spirit and will play to win.

Quite a large crowd turned out to see the game, and the white and green were much in evidence, but little enthusiasm was manifested.

The line-up on our side was as follows: Mickle and J. D. Pounds, forwards; Pelot, center; Hamlin and Beardsley, guards; The subs were F. Pounds, Leitner and Reamy.

Stetson Literary Society.

In spite of the wretched weather last Saturday evening, a very good attendance was out to the meeting of the society. The society was called to order by President Remmers and the roll called by Secretary Botts. Then followed the program for the evening. Mr. Walker gave a very full account of Current Happenings, and took occasion to express his opinion on the Panama question.

Miss Benson was exceedingly easy in her extemporaneous talk on "Basketball for Girls."

The reading by Miss Moffat, "A Modernized George Washington Story," was well rendered.

Parliamentary Practice, with Mr. Sparkman in the chair, then ensued. Such momentous questions, as opening of windows, removing of hats, and like resolutions were proposed, amended and laid on the table.

After the recess the debate was in order. The subject for debate was, That a national institute of learning be established at Washington.

Mr. Allen opened the argument for the affirmative, and was followed by Mr. Waterman on the negative. Both of these young men are new members, and though beginners, are doing remarkably well.

Miss Remmers was the second speaker on the affirmative, and Mr. Sparkman on the negative. After rebuttal the judges retired and rendered their decision in favor of the negative.

Mr. Lofberg was elected to the right honorable position of time-keeper at the public debate.

It is interesting to note that several of the members believe in visitors.

Swiss Bell Ringers.

After the heavy storm Tuesday afternoon a preliminary ringing of bells suggestively announced the entertainment of the evening. A large crowd gathered to meet the Swiss Bell Ringers and were amply repaid. Viva Johnson's sweet voice and unaffected manner won all present, while the clever performances of Arthur Wells were greeted uproariously. The music of sleigh bells, Swiss bells and xylophones was a novelty in DeLand, and Alta Wells' graceful manipulation of the many instruments was well worth seeing, as well as hearing. The dramatic and humorous work by Hayes Greenwalt was a noticeable feature of the entertainment, and Clarence Greenwalt's facility with the crayon enlivened the readings.

We are glad to hear that the entertainment was a success financially as well as in the enjoyment it afforded those present.

When you're thinking of a suitable gift for the varsity at Presentation day, remember the poor little cup at the drinking trough in Elizabeth. "These things ought not so to be."

Those who heard Mr. Weatherford Sunday afternoon listened to a very pointed and forceful address and could not fail to be impressed with its truth. We have to "pay the price" without any doubt.

How the old alumni would stare if they attended our chapel exercises now-a-days and did not see Prof. Carson rise to call the roll. Stetson is breaking further and further away and straying off after unknown gods. To speak plainly, monitors have now been appointed to keep track of absences at chapel. Many were the speculations this week, as to who these treacherous fellow students might be. Of course it would never do for the omniscient Collegiate to reveal the secret, so you will have to spy out for yourselves. Will these positions be lucrative?

At the meeting of the Athletic Association, Thursday noon, a lively discussion was engaged in. The debatable question was whether or not Stetson could maintain a basketball and a baseball team, at the same time, when members of the one also belong to the other.

The Association ruled that no match game of baseball was to be played until the present series of basketball games was completed. However, the baseball team left yesterday for Ormond, to play the game scheduled there.

Several of the members are thus taken away from the practice in basketball and apparently leave the latter team weaker than ever. Is this just to the basketball men? From all accounts it has been hard enough to get men to come out to play against our first basketball team and give them the much-needed practice. What will it be now when another brand of athletics takes the men away? Stetson is not large enough yet to keep too many teams going at the same time.

We would appeal to the students of our school. Have we been as loyal to the basketball team this year as we were in '01, or have always been to our football squad? There is no doubt that the secret of the success of our boys depends largely upon the support the other fellows give the team, both physically and morally. Has not this support been deplorably weak this year?

Nearly forty fellows were ready to come out and help in the baseball practice the other day. Remarkably different is the state of affairs in the other section.

"JIM ALECK" THE ONLY CANDIDATE

For Congress in this District at Present Date.

According to the definition of J. M. Barry, James E. Alexander is at this writing the only candidate for Congress from the Second Congressional district. His check for $250, properly certified, is up and the receipt designating for what it was tendered, is in his enormous pocketbook, together with the money it is to cost Mr. Alexander to make a vigorous and systematic campaign.

"I want you to bear in mind that I am a candidate according to the way my friend, Barry, looks at it," said Mr. Alexander as he broke in on the proceedings of the committee meeting in Palatka Wednesday to deposit his check. "Here is my money, and I am off to the woods to see the people. I am going to overtake and pass every running rabbit in this race, even if every running rabbit is sweating as I give him the high ball," said Mr. Alexander as he took his receipt.

Judge Barden, of Clay county, arose to observe that as Mr. Alexander was the only candidate, and had invited his opponents to meet him at Washington, it displayed his generosity and good will.

There were other pleasant remarks made, and Mr. Barry's definition of the word candidate came in for its share. —Times-Union.

Inter-department Debate.

Last night occurred the debate between the Laws and Lits that has been talked of so long.

The question was, "Resolved, That the government of the United States was justified in recognizing the Republic of Panama."

The lawyers had the affirmative of the question, and the literary the negative. Emmett Wilson, as the first speaker, opened the argument for debate. He was followed by Fred Botts on the negative. Kelsey Blanton spoke next on the affirmative and was answered by Seth Walker. The last speakers were Turner Butler from the Laws, and Walter Sparkman, from the opposing side. Mr. Wilson then had a rebuttal. After a long interval, the decision of the judges was brought in. They decided unanimously for the affirmative.

The debate was certainly a close one and we believe the most interesting held in the auditorium. The representatives of the Literary Society need not feel discouraged at all. The society is young, and its chosen representatives young both in years and experience. In fact, we believe this was their first appearance before the public in general. Still they acquitted themselves with honor.

The judges awarded the medal to Mr. Emmett Wilson, and Dr. Farriss presented it to him with a few appropriate remarks. Congratulations to Mr. Wilson.

During the long interval, while the decision of the judges was being made, Prof. Rodgers rendered two very enjoyable selections on the organ.

The attendance was not as large as it might have been had not the weather been so threatening.

Hon. O. C. Shiras, Dr. MacDiarmid and Rev. J. E. Oates acted as judges.

Our Latin professor was canvassing the school last week in the interest of the Athletic Association. This time it was in favor of a lecture to be delivered by a Northern lady here in the Auditorium. He expressed himself to several members of the austere faculty, to be very much inclined to favor the second subject in the list, and, lo, it was Marriage and its Possibilities! We do not know whether the lecturer is coming or not.

Rye, Vetches and Clover as a Fodder Crop.

A crop that will furnish an abundance of green feed very early is desirable in Florida. The result of a Canadian experiment, as reported in the American Agriculturist, may furnish an idea that will be valuable to Floridians.

"An interesting co-operative experiment was made by the Ontario agricultural college for the first time by sowing winter rye, hairy vetches and crimson clover in the autumn, for the purpose of producing green fodder in the following summer. The reports show that the crimson clover received the greatest injury from the early spring frosts. The highest individual yields were produced by the hairy vetches. In the average results, however, the winter rye surpassed the hairy vetches by 420 pounds of green fodder per acre, but the quality of the feed of the latter was superior to that of the former. In ten out of 12 tests, the hairy vetches were eaten readily by farm animals, and seemed particularly suitable for hogs. One farmer reported that 'the hairy vetches gave a large yield, and were relished by all classes of animals.'"
